We welcome users of any Elekta solution to take advantage of this free educational opportunity, network with experts in your field from all over the world and discover how our solutions connect people, processes and technologies to give your patients the highest level of care.

The theme this year is Connected Care. Cancer care is changing fast - and not just because the technology keeps getting better. There's more clinical information available than ever before, waiting to be analyzed. Business practices are evolving. There are more people in more disciplines to collaborate with, and better-informed patients are more actively involved with their treatments. Closer connections to your practice, your patients and your peers around the world will drive tomorrow's standard of care.

We are looking forward to an exciting and informative meeting with you in Barcelona!

Ian Alexander

Executive Vice President

Europe, Africa, Latin America & Middle East
